The film looks beyond official narratives to explore the deeper implication of past events and how they have shaped the world today. Although it features no interview subjects, it draws heavily on archive film, photos, historical writings, voice acting, and Stone's narration to capture the mood of the various eras. Furthermore, while the series is historical in nature, it is also forward looking and includes commentary on the Bush-Obama era and the growth of terrorism. Related videos. icon00:58:15. The Ultra Zionists. 2011 2020. Most visitors will walk past 109 E Palace in Santa Fe, New Mexico, and have no idea that they are passing the site that once served as Robert Oppenheimer's office. In the early 1940s, the world's top scientists and their families trudged through this patio, bedraggled from a cross-country train trip. Most didn't know where they were headed. All they had were classified orders to report to the address "109 East Palace, Santa Fe, New Mexico". When they opened the wrought iron gate, they entered what the National Historical Landmark plaque calls a "portal to their secret mission", which was to build the atomic bomb.
