Description:

Through Women's Eyes: An American History with Documents was the first text to present a narrative of U.S. women's history within the context of the central developments of the United States and to combine this core narrative with written and visual primary sources in each chapter. The authors' commitment to highlighting the best and most current scholarship, along with their focus on women from a broad range of ethnicities, classes, religions, and regions, has helped students really understand U.S. history.

Our original goal was to create a U.S. women's history that combined an inclusive and diverse narrative with primary-document and visual-source essays a comprehensive resource to aid instructors and encourage student engagement and analysis. We treat all central developments of American history, always through women's eyes, so that students may experience the broad sweep of the nation's past from a new and illuminating perspective.

Ellen Carol DuBois, Professor of History and Women's Studies at the University of California at Los Angeles, in chapter nine of her book "Through Women's Eyes: An American History with Documents" (2012), described when women were put to the battlefield and they were used to help to fight against opposing enemies from other countries. In the late 1930s, as the militarism of Germany, Italy, and Japan rose to a crescendo, most Americans adamantly opposed being drawn into war. This remained true even after Germany, under Adolf Hitler, invaded Poland in 1939 and France and Britain, the United States (Read Online) [Driving While Black: African American Travel and the Road to Civil Rights \[PREMIUM\]](#). Through Women's Eyes: An American History was the first textbook in U.S. women's history to bring together an inclusive narrative within the context of the central developments of U.S. history and to integrate written and visual primary sources into each chapter. The result, according to authors Ellen Carol DuBois and Lynn Dumenil, was to "reveal the relationship between secondary and original sources, to show history as a dynamic process of investigation and interpretation rather than a set body of facts and figures."
