Reviewer's Expert Opinion: Description: This book, the first of the specialty series published by McGraw-Hill, provides information necessary for emergency gynecologic and obstetric care of women and children. Purpose: The purpose is to aid in the care of women as they present to the practitioner with both common complaints and emergent conditions. Gynecologic Oncology and Uterine Leiomyoma. Also designed to enhance organization and readability, additional subheadings demarcate topics and break up long passages. An ancillary benefit is that anyone seeking to merely review a chapter can more quickly scan through headings to locate relevant spots. Chapter opening and closing cases frame the chapter material in a clinical context to aid learning and recall. The interior is color-coded by section to facilitate navigation. The design is understated and elegant to provide an appropriate background for the text.
